

Divide And Conquer: Technocracy Is Tyranny With out A Tyrant

As America is deconstructed by multiple forces, Technocrats are taking every advantage of a corrupt political establishment to get their way at everyone else's expense. They are the ones lurking just behind the ignorant politicians, pulling all the strings.

Global elite scholar Parag Khanna stated in his book Connectography,

"We are building this global society without a global leader. Global order is no longer something that can be dictated or controlled from the top down. Globalization is itself the order."

□ TN Editor

"In a fully developed bureaucracy there is nobody left with whom one can argue, to whom one can present grievances, on whom the pressures of power can be exerted. Bureaucracy is the form of government in which everybody is deprived of political freedom, of the power to act; for the rule by Nobody is not no-rule, and where all are equally powerless, we have a tyranny without a tyrant.” — Hannah Arendt, On Violence

What exactly is going on?

Is this revolution? Is this anarchy? Is this a spectacle engineered to distract us from the machinations of the police state? Is this a sociological means of re-setting our national equilibrium? Is this a Machiavellian scheme designed to further polarize the populace and undermine our efforts to stand unified against government tyranny? Is this so-called populist uprising actually a manufactured race war and election-year referendum on who should occupy the White House?

Whatever it is, this—the racial hypersensitivity without racial justice, the kowtowing to politically correct bullies with no regard for anyone else’s free speech rights, the violent blowback after years of government-sanctioned brutality, the mob mindset that is overwhelming the rights of the individual, the oppressive glowering of the Nanny State, the seemingly righteous indignation full of sound and fury that in the end signifies nothing, the partisan divide that grows more impassable with every passing day—is not leading us anywhere good.

Certainly it’s not leading to more freedom.

This draconian exercise in how to divide, conquer and subdue a nation is succeeding.

It must be said: the Black Lives Matter protests have not helped. Inadvertently or intentionally, these protests—tinged with mob violence, rampant incivility, intolerance, and an arrogant disdain for how an open marketplace of ideas can advance freedom—have politicized what should never have been politicized: police brutality and the government’s ongoing assaults on our freedoms.

For one brief moment in the wake of George Floyd’s death, it seemed as if finally “we the people” might put aside our differences long enough to stand united in outrage over the government’s brutality.

That sliver of unity didn't last.

We may be worse off now than we were before.

Suddenly, no one seems to be talking about any of the egregious governmental abuses that are still wreaking havoc on our freedoms: police shootings of unarmed individuals, invasive surveillance, roadside blood draws, roadside strip searches, SWAT team raids gone awry, the military industrial complex's costly wars, pork barrel spending, pre-crime laws, civil asset forfeiture, fusion centers, militarization, armed drones, smart policing carried out by AI robots, courts that march in lockstep with the police state, schools that function as indoctrination centers, bureaucrats that keep the Deep State in power.

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

How do you persuade a populace to embrace totalitarianism, that goose-stepping form of tyranny in which the government has all of the power and "we the people" have none?

You persuade the people that the menace they face (imaginary or not) is so sinister, so overwhelming, so fearsome that the only way to surmount the danger is by empowering the government to take all necessary steps to quash it, even if that means allowing government jackboots to trample all over the Constitution.

This is how you use the politics of fear to persuade a freedom-endowed people to shackle themselves to a dictatorship.

It works the same way every time.

The government's overblown, extended wars on terrorism, drugs, violence, illegal immigration, and so-called domestic extremism have been convenient ruses used to terrorize the populace into relinquishing more of their freedoms in exchange for elusive promises of security.

Having allowed our fears to be codified and our actions criminalized, we now find ourselves in a strange new world where just about everything we do is criminalized, even our ability to choose whether or not to wear a mask in public during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Strangely enough, in the face of outright corruption and incompetency on the part of our elected officials, Americans in general remain relatively gullible, eager to be persuaded that the government can solve the problems that plague us, whether it be terrorism, an economic depression, an environmental disaster, or a global pandemic.

We have relinquished control over the most intimate aspects of our lives to government officials who, while they may occupy seats of authority, are neither wiser, smarter, more in tune with our needs, more knowledgeable about our problems, nor more aware of what is really in our best interests. Yet having bought into the false notion that the government does indeed know what's best for us and can ensure not only our safety but our happiness and will take care of us from cradle to grave—that is, from daycare centers to nursing homes—we have in actuality allowed ourselves to be bridled and turned into slaves at the bidding of a government that cares little for our freedoms or our happiness.

The lesson is this: once a free people allows the government inroads into their freedoms or uses those same freedoms as bargaining chips for security, it quickly becomes a slippery slope to outright tyranny.

Nor does it seem to matter whether it's a Democrat or a Republican at the helm anymore. Indeed, the bureaucratic mindset on both sides of the aisle now seems to embody the same philosophy of authoritarian government, whose priorities are to milk "we the people" of our hard-earned money (by way of taxes, fines and fees) and remain in control and in power.

Modern government in general—ranging from the militarized police in SWAT team gear crashing through our doors to the rash of innocent citizens being gunned down by police to the invasive spying on everything we do—is acting illogically, even psychopathically. (The characteristics of a psychopath include a "lack of remorse and empathy, a sense of grandiosity, superficial charm, conning and manipulative behavior, and refusal to take responsibility for one's actions, among others.")

When our own government no longer sees us as human beings with dignity and worth but as things to be manipulated, maneuvered, mined for data, manhandled by police, conned into believing it has our best interests at heart, mistreated, and then jails us if we dare step out of line, punishes us unjustly without remorse, and refuses to own up to its failings, we are no longer operating under a constitutional republic. Instead, what we are experiencing is a pathocracy: tyranny at the hands of a psychopathic government, which “operates against the interests of its own people except for favoring certain groups.”

So where does that leave us?

Having allowed the government to expand and exceed our reach, we find ourselves on the losing end of a tug-of-war over control of our country and our lives. And for as long as we let them, government officials will continue to trample on our rights, always justifying their actions as being for the good of the people.

Yet the government can only go as far as “we the people” allow. Therein lies the problem.

The pickle we find ourselves in speaks volumes about the nature of the government beast we have been saddled with and how it views the rights and sovereignty of “we the people.”

Now you don’t hear a lot about sovereignty anymore. Sovereignty is a dusty, antiquated term that harkens back to an age when kings and emperors ruled with absolute power over a populace that had no rights. Americans turned the idea of sovereignty on its head when they declared their independence from Great Britain and rejected the absolute authority of King George III. In doing so, Americans claimed for themselves the right to self-government and established themselves as the ultimate authority and power.

In other words, in America, “we the people”— sovereign citizens—call the shots.

So when the government acts, it is supposed to do so at our bidding and on our behalf, because we are the rulers.

That's not exactly how it turned out, though, is it?

In the 200-plus years since we boldly embarked on this experiment in self-government, we have been steadily losing ground to the government's brazen power grabs, foisted upon us in the so-called name of national security.

The government has knocked us off our rightful throne. It has usurped our rightful authority. It has staged the ultimate coup. Its agents no longer even pretend that they answer to "we the people." Worst of all, "we the people" have become desensitized to this constant undermining of our freedoms.

How do we reconcile the Founders' vision of the government as an entity whose only purpose is to serve the people with the police state's insistence that the government is the supreme authority, that its power trumps that of the people themselves, and that it may exercise that power in any way it sees fit (that includes government agents crashing through doors, mass arrests, ethnic cleansing, racial profiling, indefinite detentions without due process, and internment camps)?

They cannot be reconciled. They are polar opposites.

We are fast approaching a moment of reckoning where we will be forced to choose between the vision of what America was intended to be (a model for self-governance where power is vested in the people) and the reality of what it has become (a police state where power is vested in the government).

This slide into totalitarianism—helped along by overcriminalization, government surveillance, militarized police, neighbors turning in neighbors, privatized prisons, and forced labor camps, to name just a few similarities—is tracking very closely with what happened in Germany in the years leading up to Hitler's rise to power.

We are walking a dangerous path right now.

No matter who wins the presidential election come November, it's a sure bet that the losers will be the American people.

Despite what is taught in school and the propaganda that is peddled by the media, the 2020 presidential election is not a populist election for a representative. Rather, it's a gathering of shareholders to select the next CEO, a fact reinforced by the nation's archaic electoral college system.

Anyone who believes that this election will bring about any real change in how the American government does business is either incredibly naïve, woefully out-of-touch, or oblivious to the fact that as an in-depth Princeton University study shows, we now live in an oligarchy that is "of the rich, by the rich and for the rich."

When a country spends close to $10 billion on elections to select what is, for all intents and purposes, a glorified homecoming king or queen to occupy the White House and fill other government seats, while more than 40 million of its people live in poverty, more than 40 million Americans are on unemployment, more than 500,000 Americans are homeless, and analysts forecast it will take a decade to work our way out of the current COVID-induced recession, that's a country whose priorities are out of step with the needs of its people.

Be warned, however: the Establishment—the Deep State and its corporate partners that really run the show, pull the strings and dictate the policies, no matter who occupies the Oval Office—is not going to allow anyone to take office who will unravel their power structures. Those who have attempted to do so in the past have been effectively put out of commission.

Voting sustains the illusion that we have a democratic republic, but it is merely a dictatorship in disguise, or what political scientists Martin Gilens and Benjamin Page more accurately refer to as an "economic elite domination."

In such an environment, the economic elite (lobbyists, corporations, monied special interest groups) dictate national policy. As the Princeton University oligarchy study indicates, our elected officials, especially those in the nation's capital, represent the interests of the rich and powerful rather than the average citizen. As such, the citizenry has little if any impact on the policies of government.

We have been saddled with a two-party system and fooled into believing that there's a difference between the Republicans and Democrats, when in fact, the two parties are exactly the same. As one commentator noted, both parties support endless war, engage in out-of-control spending, ignore the citizenry's basic rights, have no respect for the rule of law, are bought and paid for by Big Business, care most about their own power, and have a long record of expanding government and shrinking liberty

We're drowning under the weight of too much debt, too many wars, too much power in the hands of a centralized government run by a corporate elite, too many militarized police, too many laws, too many lobbyists, and generally too much bad news.

The powers-that-be want us to believe that our job as citizens begins and ends on Election Day. They want us to believe that we have no right to complain about the state of the nation unless we've cast our vote one way or the other. They want us to remain divided over politics, hostile to those with whom we disagree politically, and intolerant of anyone or anything whose solutions to what ails this country differ from our own.

What they don't want us talking about is the fact that the government is corrupt, the system is rigged, the politicians don't represent us, the electoral college is a joke, most of the candidates are frauds, and, as I point out in my book Battlefield America: The War on the American People, we as a nation are repeating the mistakes of history—namely, allowing a totalitarian state to reign over us.

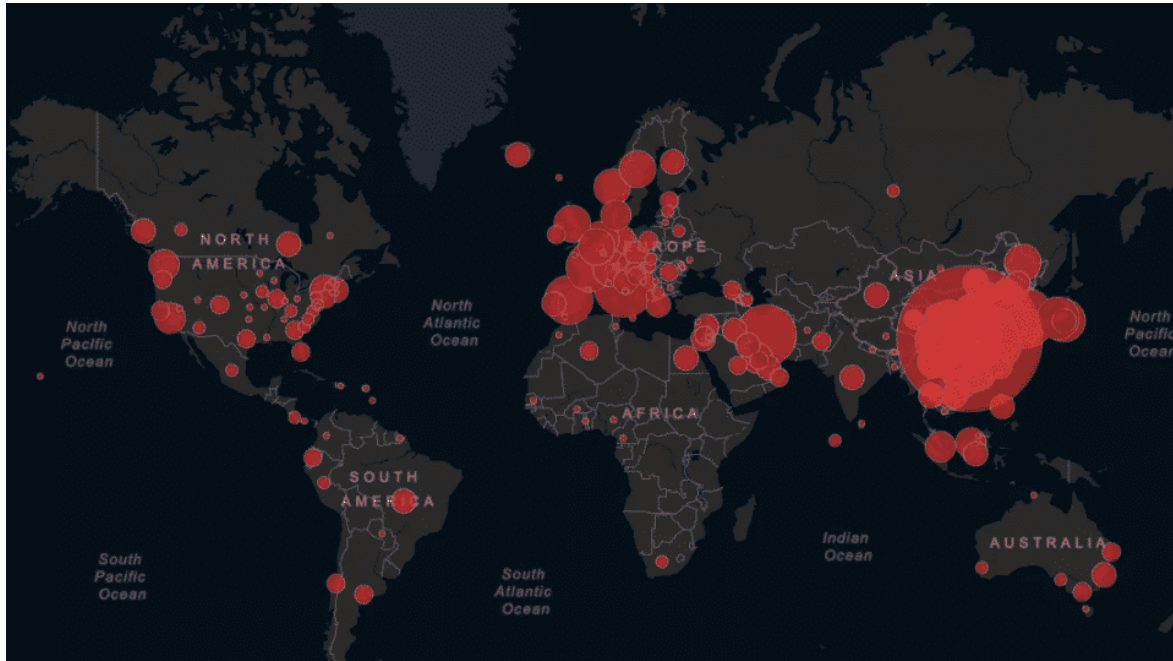

Former concentration camp inmate Hannah Arendt warned against this when she wrote, "Never has our future been more unpredictable, never have we depended so much on political forces that cannot be trusted to follow the rules of common sense and self-interest—forces that look like sheer insanity, if judged by the standards of other centuries."

As we once again find ourselves faced with the prospect of voting for the lesser of two evils, "we the people" have a decision to make: do we simply participate in the collapse of the American republic as it degenerates toward a totalitarian regime, or do we take a stand and reject the pathetic excuse for government that is being fobbed off on us?

Never forget that the lesser of two evils is still evil.

Technocrats Pitch Surveillance System To Detect Next Pandemic

Surveillance and monitoring are key tools of Technocracy in order to enforce its “science of social engineering.” There is no level of surveillance or amount of data collected that is “enough”. To a Technocrat, data represents control over the subjects being surveilled.

Also expect more calls for other surveillance systems to measure temperature, coughing and other symptoms of disease across the entire population. □ TN Editor

Scientific experts said Thursday that a wildlife surveillance system must be developed before the next pandemic emerges.

Evidence shows the virus that causes COVID-19, SARS-CoV-2, came from bats that likely passed the virus onto another species before infecting humans, according to the World Health Organization.

Infectious disease experts, ecologists, wildlife biologists and other experts argue, in a paper published in the journal Science, that a decentralized global system of wildlife surveillance must be established before the next pandemic.

“It’s impossible to know how often animal viruses spill over into the human population, but coronaviruses alone have caused outbreaks in people three times in the last 20 years,” co-author Jennifer Philips said in a press release.

Phillips, who is an associate professor of medicine and co-director of the Division of Infectious Diseases at Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, was referring to outbreaks from the SARS, MERS and COVID-19 epidemics.

“Even a decade ago it would have been difficult to conduct worldwide surveillance at the human-wildlife interface,” Philips continued. “But because of technological advances, it is now feasible and affordable, and it has never been more obvious how necessary it is.”

Researchers said in the paper that expansion into wild areas for resources due to population growth has exacerbated the problem.

Wildlife animals caught for consumption, sold at wildlife markets as exotic pets or held in crowded or unsanitary conditions have also made spillover of viruses into human population more likely, the researchers say.

The surveillance system would monitor wildlife markets and other hotspots to identify whether a virus in animals could spread to humans by comparing genomic sequence data.

How To Read Emergency Orders And Avoid Wearing Face Masks

Every city, county or state that issues a “mandate” to wear face masks and practice social distancing must published it publicly and make it available for you to read. Download it and read it! Don’t ever believe what the local media or other individuals say about the mandate, you must read and examine it for yourself.

The city of Englewood, Colorado issued an emergency order on March 10, 2020 that required all citizens to wear face masks when outside of their home. The entire emergency order is reproduced below, and the emphasis is added for clarity.

The ultimate penalty for not wearing a face mask in Englewood is a fine of up to $2,500 and up to one year in jail. It is not clear if the City Manager just made this up or if it was embedded in the ordinance approved by the City Council. If any court action were ever brought against a citizen, it is highly unlikely that the city would prevail.

Again, you must read the entire 'emergency order' and the fine print therein.

In Section C-v below, exceptions to the mandate are clearly stated:

When wearing a Face Covering would inhibit the individual's health. Workers with health issues that preclude them from wearing a Face Covering must document those concerns with their employer.

Technocracy News has taken great pains to present the real science and health risks posed when wearing a face mask. If you don't understand the issues, please carefully read each article and listen to the radio interview.

- Blaylock: Face Masks Pose Serious Risks To The Healthy
- Censored: A Review Of Science Relevant To COVID-19 Social Policy And Why Face Masks Don't Work
- The Miserable Pseudo-Science Behind Face Masks, Social Distancing And Contact Tracing
- Special Interview With Dr. Russell Blaylock on Face Masks And COVID-19

If you believe the real science and not the pseudo-science and technocrat rhetoric, you would likely refuse to ever wear a face mask in public. It is not selfish, as some would claim, to protect your own health; nor does the government ever have the authority to force you to do something against your will that is harmful to you.

If you do not want to comply with unconstitutional and harmful orders to wear a face mask, especially if you have a pre-existing health condition, then head over to Citizens for Free Speech and get a "no face mask" card and lanyard to wear around your neck to assert your rights.

For those who would attempt to bully or shame you into not wearing such a card, they have no ground whatsoever to stand on. Ignore them. Testimonials of success are pouring in from around the country. Steve from Idaho City wrote,

“Can I get another badge/lanyard that you sent to us? They are coming down on us heavy with the mandatory mask thing in our area. My wife has used the badge/lanyard you sent us multiple times, and it works to ward off the tyrannists.”

In Arizona, most communities and counties are currently mandating the wearing of face masks, etc. Because I always wear this card when I am in public, I have not yet been required to wear a mask since the “pandemic” began, nor have I worn one.

Still think you don’t have any constitutional rights? Read what the Department of Justice recently wrote to support a lawsuit brought against the city of Greenville, South Carolina:

There is no pandemic exception, however, to the fundamental liberties the Constitution safeguards. Indeed, “individual rights secured by the Constitution do not disappear during a public health crisis.” These individual rights, including the protections in the Bill of Rights made applicable to the states through the Fourteenth Amendment, are always in force and restrain government action. EMERGENCY ORDER

City of Englewood, Colorado

Recitals and Findings

On March 10, 2020, the Governor of the State of Colorado issued an Executive Order (“EO”) declaring a state of disaster emergency for the State of Colorado due to the risk of the spread of the novel coronavirus, designated as COVID-19.

On March 18, 2020 the City of Englewood City Council passed

Emergency Ordinance# I 0, Series of 2020 declaring that a public health emergency existed due to the spread of COVID-19 within the City of Englewood, and granting the City Manager of the City of Englewood full power and authority to take certain actions and issue orders necessary for the protection of life and property in response to COVID-19, including, but not limited to:

- Any action necessary for the protection of life and property, including, but not limited to, establishing regulations governing conduct related to the cause of the public health emergency.
- Any order to exercise such powers and functions in light of the exigencies of this public health emergency, including, but not limited to, the waiving of compliance with any time-consuming procedures and formalities, including notices, as may be prescribed by law pertaining thereto.
- Instituting any and all other orders or undertaking such other functions and activities as the City Manager reasonably believes is required under the circumstances to protect the health, safety, welfare of persons or property within the City of Englewood, or to otherwise preserve the public peace or abate, clean up, or mitigate the effects of the public health emergency.

Since that time the United States Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (“CDC”), Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment (“CDPHE”), and the DDPHE have recommended that members of the public, when they need to interact with others outside the home, and especially in settings where many people are present, should cover the mouth and nose to prevent inadvertently spreading COVID-19. One key transmission method for the COVID-19 virus is through respiratory droplets that people expel when they breathe, cough, or sneeze. Moreover, people can be infected with the COVID-19 virus and be asymptomatic but still be contagious. People can also be infected and contagious 48 hours before developing symptoms when they are pre-symptomatic. Many people with COVID-19 have mild symptoms and do not recognize they are infected and contagious, and they can unintentionally infect others.

On July 6, 2020, the City Council approved a motion to direct the City Manager to issue an Emergency Order pursuant to his authority under Ordinance 10, Series 2020, to mandate the wearing of masks in commercial spaces and while riding on or within public transportation.

NOW THEREFORE, I, J. Shawn Lewis, City Manager of the City of Englewood, Colorado, hereby finds and orders:

FINDING. I hereby find that wearing face coverings, in combination with physical distancing of at least 6 feet and frequent hand-washing, may reduce the risk of transmitting the COVID-19 virus when in public, thereby avoiding both the physical harms to individuals associated with contracting COVID-19 and the economic banns to the City’s business community associated with more extreme measures to control the spread of COVID-19, such as State mandated business shut-down orders.

ORDER.

I. Except as specifically exempted below, all members of the public, including children six (6) years of age or older, must wear a Face Covering outside their home or other place they reside in the following situations:

A. When inside, or in line to enter, any retail or commercial business or governmental service.

B. When obtaining services at Healthcare Operations, as defined in the April 9 Fourth Updated CDPHE Stay at Home Order - including, but not limited to, hospitals, clinics, and walk-in health facilities, dentists, pharmacies, blood banks, other healthcare facilities, behavioral health providers, and facilities providing Emergency Order/COE/FACE COVERINGS IN PUBLIC P a g e 113 veterinary and similar healthcare services for animals - unless directed otherwise by an employee or worker at the Healthcare Operation; and

C. When waiting for or riding on public transportation (including without limitation any bus, RTD bus, or RTD light rail), para transit, or while they are riding in a taxi, private car service, or ride-sharing vehicle.

2. Drivers or operators of any public transportation, para transit vehicle, taxi, private car service, ride-sharing vehicle, or any other vehicle for hire must wear a Face Covering while driving or operating such vehicle within the City, regardless of whether a member of the public is in the vehicle, to reduce the spread of respiratory droplets in the vehicle at all times. This Order does not require any person to wear a Face Covering while driving alone, or exclusively with other members of the same family or household, in a motor vehicle.

3. All retail and commercial businesses, as well as entities and organizations with workers performing Critical Government Functions, must:

A. Require their employees, contractors, owners, and volunteers to wear a Face Covering at the workplace and when performing work off-site any time the employee, contractor, owner, or volunteer is:

i. interacting in person with any member of the public;

ii. working in any space visited by members of the public, such as by way of example and without limitation, reception areas, grocery store or pharmacy aisles, service counters, public restrooms, cashier and checkout areas, waiting rooms, service areas, and other spaces used to interact with the public, regardless of whether anyone from the public is present at the time;

iii. working in any space where food is prepared or packaged for sale or distribution to others;

iv. working in or walking through common areas such as hallways, stairways, elevators, and parking facilities; or

v. in any room or enclosed area when other people (except for members of the person's own household or residence) are present.

B. Take reasonable measures, such as posting signs, to remind customers and the public of the requirement to wear a Face Covering while inside of or waiting in line to enter the business, facility, or location. Businesses and organizations performing Critical Government Functions must take all reasonable steps to prohibit any member of the public who is not wearing a Face Covering from entering.

C. A Face Covering is not required under the following circumstances:

i. When a person is in a personal office (a single room) where others outside of that person's household are not present as long as the public does not regularly visit the room, but that individual must put on a Face Covering when coworkers are working within six feet, when being visited by a client/customer, and anywhere members of the public or other coworkers are regularly present.

ii. Any child under the age of three should not wear a Face Covering because of the risk of suffocation.

iii. Childcare facilities should follow CDPHE guidance for the use of Face Coverings on children age three or older.

iv. When a person is (1) inside or obtaining services at a business, Critical Government Function, or Healthcare Operation, any of which are engaged primarily in providing congregate care, residential health care, or congregate shelter, and (2) the individual is engaged in activities not conducive to wearing a Face Covering, such as eating or sleeping, or the individual is in an area of the facility that is not designed for community gathering, such as a sleeping area.

v. When wearing a Face Covering would inhibit the individual's health. Workers with health issues that preclude them from wearing a Face Covering must document those concerns with their employer.

D. Face Coverings shall be worn in a manner that complies with the directives of the Centers for Disease Control, such directives attached hereto and incorporated herein, and found at <https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/prevent-getting-sick/how-to-wear-cloth-face-coverings.html>. Failing to wear a Face Covering in a manner that covers both the nose and mouth shall not be deemed compliant with this Emergency Order.

E. The members of the City's Police Department and all code enforcement officials are hereby authorized and directed to enforce the orders, rules, and regulations made or issued pursuant to this Emergency Order.

F. Penalty Provisions. Enforcement of this Emergency Order shall commence on July 10, 2020, at 8:00 a.m. A written warning may be issued for a first offense to either the individual failing to wear a mask or to parent(s)/guardian(s) of persons failing to wear a mask.

Any person charged with an offense under this emergency order may make payment to the Violations Bureau in accordance with the provisions of E.M.C. I -7-4: First Offense: $15.00 Second and Subsequent Offense: $25.00

Any person charged with an offense under this Emergency Order may choose to enter a plea of not guilty and be entitled to trial as authorized by law in accordance with E.M.C. 1-7-4.

Maximum Possible Penalty. Except as otherwise provided within this Emergency Order any person convicted of a violation of any Emergency Order issued under the Authority of Ordinance 10, Series 2020, shall be subject to the penalties set forth in EMC 1-4-1 (A). The maximum penalties provided by EMC 1- 4- 1 (A) include a fine not exceeding two thousand six hundred and fifty dollars ($2,650.00) or imprisonment for a term not exceeding three hundred sixty (360) days or by both such fine and imprisonment. Enforcement actions are intended to be cumulative in nature and Englewood may pursue one or more civil, criminal, and administrative actions, fees, fines, sentences, penalties, judgments, and remedies and may do so simultaneously or in succession.

G. The City Manager, or designee, is authorized to declare any commercial business that allows persons within its establishment to violate this Emergency Order a Public Health nuisance pursuant to EMC 15-3-1.

H. Pursuant to Ordinance 10, Series 2020, All members of the public shall be deemed to have been given notice of all orders, rules, and regulations made or issued pursuant to this ordinance upon their dissemination to the news media or publication on the City website. Additional means of publicity will be utilized as are available.

I. The effective date of this Emergency Order is July 9, 2020. It shall remain in effect until rescinded by action of the City Council or the City Manager of the City of Englewood.

AUTHORITY. This Emergency Order is issued pursuant to Ordinance 10, Series of 2020, Section 5(a) authorizing the City Manager to any action necessary for the protection of life and property, including, but not limited to, establishing regulations governing conduct related to the cause of the public health emergency, and Section 5 (q), authorizing the City Manager to issue any and all other orders or undertake such other functions and activities as the City Manager reasonably believes is required under the circumstances to protect the health, safety, welfare of persons or property within the City of Englewood, or to otherwise preserve the public peace or abate, clean up, or mitigate the effects of the public health emergency.

CONFLICT WITH OTHER LAWS. Pursuant to Ordinance 10, Series of 2020, Section 9, [i]f any provision of this Emergency Order conflicts with the City Charter, the City Charter shall control. If any provision of this Order conflicts with any provision of the City of Englewood Municipal Code, or any provision of the City Council's Procedures and Rules of Order, this Emergency Order shall control.

GIVEN under my hand and seal this 7th day of July, 2020
