

The Technocratic Coup is Advancing Rapidly - Is this the America You Want?

Time is of the essence for Americans to stand and proclaim, 'We will not comply' with the crackpot science, policies and agendas of Technocracy and its deluded Technocrat practitioners. The time to reject all of it is...NOW! □ TN Editor

Do you know what "technocracy" means? If not, it is time you learn about it, because we are currently going through what technocracy expert Patrick Wood says is a Coup D'état as the technocrats take over the world, literally.

Mr. Wood was interviewed this week by Spiro Skouras of Activist Post, and he stated:

The whole world right now is laboring under the same issues that we are laboring in our country. That is, the Great Panic of 2020...

The technocrats who are pushing technocracy globally have finally succeeded in springing the trap on the entire planet.

And in the process, they have shut down the entire global economic system.

Around the world people in other countries are looking to America to save the world.... and it's not going to be our government that does it, it's the American citizens like you and me....

Technocracy is not all that new, and has been around since the 1930s here in the U.S.

In their publication The Technocrat published in 1938, they defined "technocracy" as:

the science of social engineering, the scientific operation of the entire social mechanism to produce and distribute goods and services to the entire population of this continent.

Mr. Wood explains that technocracy was not developed as a political structure.

It was not a political system. They hated politicians. They wanted to do away with the entire political structure, and simply manage the economy.

They wanted to do it using what they call this "science of social engineering."

Mr. Wood gives some examples of contemporary technocrats who are involved in the “science of social engineering”:

- Dr. Anthony Fauci
- Al Gore
- Robert McNamara, the Secretary of Defense during the Vietnam war
- Bill Gates
- Elon Musk
- Eric Schmidt (Google)
- Jeff Bezos (Amazon.com)

Wood says:

These people are not communists. They're not socialists, and they're not Marxists.

They're technocrats. (who believe in social engineering)

The goals of the technocrats today are embodied in the United Nations’s “sustainable development” goals and part of the New World Order agenda, which is primarily an economic system, and not a political system.

Both Spiro and Mr. Wood made reference to President Dwight Eisenhower’s farewell speech at the end of his 8 years in office, on January 17, 1961, where he warned about the danger of the technocrats. One quote:

Today, the solitary inventor tinkering in his shop has been overshadowed by task forces of scientists. In laboratories and testing fields in the same fashion, the free university, historically the fountain head of free ideas and scientific discovery, has experienced a revolution in the conduct of research. Partly because of the huge cost of research, a government contract becomes virtually a substitute for intellectual curiosity.

For every old blackboard there are now hundreds of new electronic computers. The prospect of domination of the nation’s scholars by federal employment, project allocations, and the power of money is ever present, and is greatly to be regarded.

Yet in holding scientific research and discovery in respect, as we should, we must also be alert to the equal and opposite danger that public policy could itself become the captive of a scientific technological elite.

Watch the full speech:

Mr. Wood elaborates on the fact that the goal of the technocrats is an economic system, and not a political system. They want a “Scientific Dictatorship.”

This was the driving force behind the eugenics movement in the U.S. during the 1930s and 1940s, and led to forced sterilization laws being imposed on “genetically inferior” women the technocrats did not want to continue breeding.

This is a result of social engineering by the technocrats.

I still see this at the United Nations today, and I still see it whenever Bill Gates speaks anywhere, they look at you and I as cattle steers in a giant feed lot where all of your food is pre-mixed, and you're force-fed, and you get shots with this thing, and that thing, and you get branded and you get pushed to this corral and pushed to that corral.

This is social engineering in their mind. This is just a continuation of what's been going on for almost a hundred years.

They just don't care about individual human life.

Listen to the full interview: (Note: The original interview on Spiro's YT channel has been banned by YouTube. <https://youtu.be/HKdsL57SUZo>)

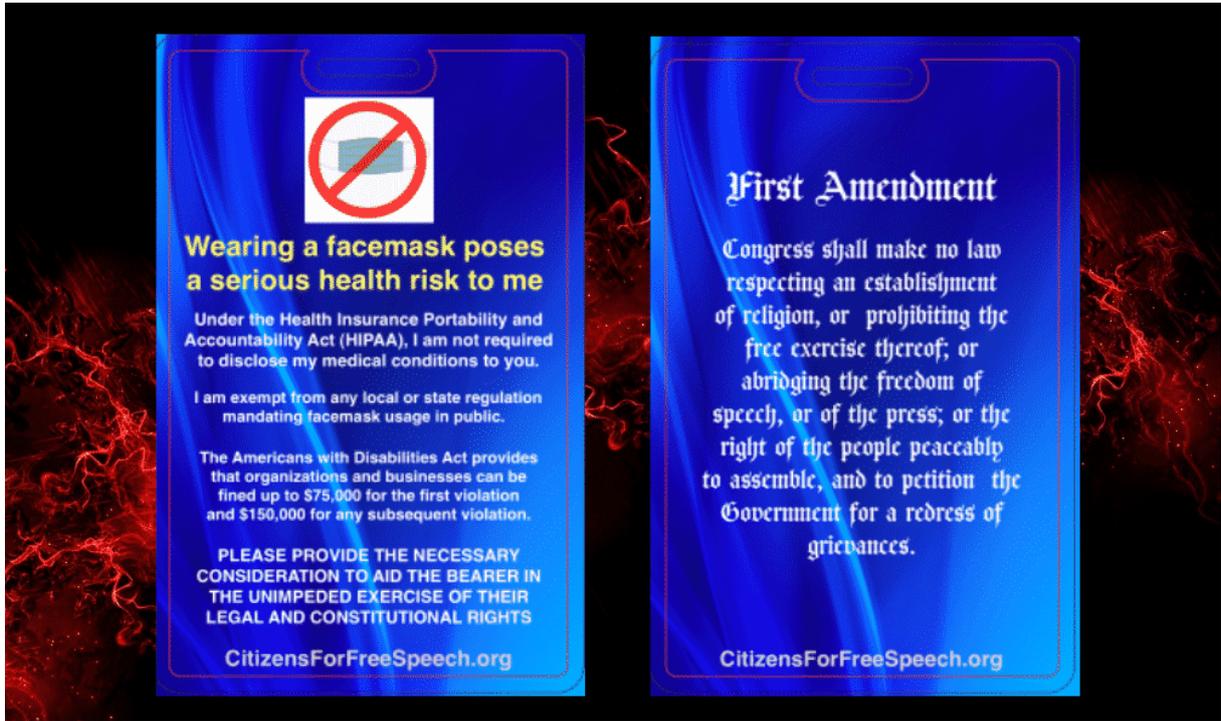

Patrick Wood does offer some solutions. He founded a website called "Citizens for Free Speech," as he believes the first thing that has to go to abolish the Constitution of the United States is to abolish the First Amendment, and free speech.

This is already being suppressed by the technocrats and their social media platforms, as even Google Search results now are geared towards their world view only. See:

Google Search is the Greatest Mind Control Brainwashing Tool in the History of Mankind

He believes that face mask and social distancing orders are an attack on the First Amendment, and members of his Citizens for Free Speech organization are wearing small placards that look like this to protest wearing a mask:

“People are coming to us by the thousands every month.”

Yale

Professor:

Hydroxychloroquine Could Save 100,000 Lives If Widely Deployed

The Technocrat-induced propaganda war against the use of the drug hydroxychloroquine to treat COVID-19 has cost tens of thousands of needless deaths. HCQ has treated tens of millions of people over 65 years with few side effects, and is dirt cheap. □ TN Editor

Yale epidemiology professor Dr. Harvey Risch told Fox News's "Ingraham Angle" that he thinks hydroxychloroquine could save 75,000 to 100,000 lives if widely used to treat COVID-19, and that it's unfortunate that a "propaganda war" has been waged on the commonly prescribed drug which is not based on "medical facts."

"There are many doctors that I've gotten hostile remarks about saying that all the evidence is bad for it and, in fact, that is not true at all," Risch said on Monday, adding that he believes the drug should be used as a prophylactic for front-line healthcare workers, as has been done in India.

Researchers at the Henry Ford Health System in Southeast Michigan have found that early administration of hydroxychloroquine makes hospitalized patients substantially less likely to die.

The study, published in the International Journal of Infectious Diseases, determined that hydroxychloroquine provided a "66 percent hazard ratio reduction," and hydroxychloroquine and azithromycin a 71 percent reduction, compared with neither treatment.

In-hospital mortality was 18.1 percent overall; 13.5 percent with just hydroxychloroquine, 22.4 percent with azithromycin alone, and 26.4 percent with neither drug. "Prospective trials are needed" for further review, the researchers note, even as they concluded: "In this multi-hospital assessment, when controlling for COVID-19 risk factors, treatment with hydroxychloroquine alone and in combination with azithromycin was associated with reduction in COVID-19 associated mortality.” -Fox News

“All the evidence is actually good for it when it is used in outpatient uses. Nevertheless, the only people who actually say that are a whole pile of doctors who are on the front lines treating those patients across the country and they are the ones who are at risk being forced not to do it,” Risch added, arguing that the MSM refuses to cover the benefits of the drug, and is actively silencing those trying to address the efficacy of HCQ.

Imagine how many people have died thanks to the media’s ‘propaganda war.’

Read full story here...

Huntington Beach Becoming Symbol Of 'We Will Not Comply'

Although this article is highly critical of “mask doubters”, the fact remains that Huntington Beach residents are in disbelief and fed up with coronavirus panic measures. The attitude is spreading throughout Orange County, which is traditionally more conservative than other parts of California. □ TN Editor

As Brad Colburn whisked his metal detector over the tan sands of Huntington Beach, a rejection of Orange County’s spiking coronavirus infection rates surfaced.

“I don’t believe it. I don’t believe the rates are rising,” Colburn said. “They’re inflated. It’s another way of shutting everything down ... of the Democrats trying to get what they want.”

The 58-year-old Huntington Beach resident said he has yet to wear a mask outside of shopping. Standing by a beach path as cyclists and in-line skaters zoomed by, he offered his own alternative policy to restrictive coronavirus health orders.

“If you don’t want to go outside, don’t go outside,” Colburn said.

More than any other place in California, Huntington Beach has come to symbolize resistance to many of the coronavirus safety rules government officials have imposed in recent months. It’s not as though no one in the city is wearing masks and social distancing.

But many who oppose mandatory mask rules and other measures like closing beaches have been outspoken here, and used the tourist mecca as a platform for their views. In May, angry demonstrators converged a block away at the now mostly quiet Huntington Beach Pier to protest the state-ordered shutdown of local businesses.

Since then, many roaming through the city’s downtown area are proudly not wearing masks. And the stance has even inspired a parody video that went viral on social media in recent weeks.

Fred Smoller, a professor of political science at nearby Chapman University, described Huntington Beach as a conservative stronghold and said that the attitudes about the coronavirus there reflect larger political divides.

“Their ideology is a lens through which they are viewing the coronavirus,” Smoller said. “I would imagine many people there see it as a hoax, which the president has encouraged them to do in order to up his chance of reelection. I’m sure there’s quite a bit of animus toward the governor.... They’re viewing [state restrictions] as further evidence of the deep state and of an intrusive government.”

Huntington Beach Mayor Lyn Semeta said the city would continue its educational efforts to keep residents safe. Masks, she said in an email statement to The Times, are “critical in keeping people healthy and helping our businesses operate safely in the limited capacity they are able to.”

When asked about opposition to COVID-19 restrictions in Huntington Beach, Semeta said she was aware people around the state are “uncomfortable with the use of face coverings.”

“I can certainly understand that sentiment. However, while there is still much we are learning about this virus, health experts have come out strongly recommending face coverings as an effective measure that helps stop the spread of COVID-19,” Semeta said, urging residents to wear them.

The number of Orange County coronavirus cases has surged in recent weeks, with more than 31,000 confirmed cases and more than 500 deaths. The number of hospitalizations has tripled in the last two months and overall infections have grown so dramatically that the county is now second in the state to Los Angeles County.

There is widespread acceptance that masks play a key role in slowing the spread of the coronavirus, and their widespread use in other countries is credited with slowing infections dramatically.

But skepticism abounds over the seriousness of the outbreak.

Read full story here...